The Apothecary Rose Our Legacy for Beautifying Skin

The Apothecary Rose carries a rich history of beauty and purpose. Apothecaries dating back to Medieval and Victorian times planted this rose in medicinal gardens for its healing properties.

C.O. Bigelow uses The Apothecary Rose for its powerful therapeutic properties. Various rose remedies aided indigestion, sore throats and skin rashes as well as a multitude of other illnesses. It was also believed that the petals would eliminate wrinkles and give a youthful appearance if rubbed on the skin.

Since 1838, this time-honored beauty has been used in our apothecary. Our chemists have been transforming the precious substances of the rose into therapeutic preparations- creating powders, oils, tonics, lotions and creams.

We continue to carry out 'The Apothecary Rose Tradition' of healing by bringing to you an assortment of fine, authentic rose products that make a difference in the way you look and feel.
